OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH

We know how important your health is.

We know how important your health is.

What is the Travel Health & Immunization Program?

Traveling to a foreign country can be both exciting and intimidating. But it rarely turns out exactly as expected. In fact, many travelers contract illnesses because they weren't prepared. By anticipating situations you might encounter, you can help guard against travel-related health or safety problems.

Recognizing the need to evaluate your healthcare in the planning stages of your trip, Scottsdale Healthcare has developed a Travel Health & Immunization Program.

We know how important your health is. Even if you are in good health, you may be at risk for certain illnesses or diseases found in foreign countries. That's why our Travel Health & Immunization Program offers the latest information and practical care for travelers including:

- Access to health and safety information on every country in the world.
- A travel health planner.
- Information about current international vaccine requirements.
- Travel precautions for existing conditions.
- Suggestions for non-prescriptive medications for travel.
- Up-to-date counseling regarding preventive self-care behaviors.
- Immunizations and prescriptive pharmaceuticals.

Open to the community, the program is coordinated through Scottsdale Healthcare's Occupational Health Department at the following locations: 3604 N. Wells Fargo Ave., Ste. F; 10200 N. 92nd St., Ste. 100 and 15150 N. Hayden Rd., Ste. 100. Counseling, consultation, travel materials and immunizations are available during your appointment.

Expert travel health staff

Our team of travel medicine experts will discuss with you your travel plans and health history to develop a care plan tailored to your trip. Staff members have access to health information around the world through a computer software program that provides weekly world health updates. No matter where in the world you are going, we can find the latest information on health or safety issues.

The team of experts includes:

A registered nurse and medical provider with training in travel health and membership in the International Society of Travel Medicine.
